MCM Ranks Among Washington's top 75 Corporate Philanthropists

Seattle, WASH. – For the third consecutive year MCM has been recognized by the Puget Sound Business Journal as one of Washington's top 75 corporate philanthropists. This year, MCM ranked second in the small business category for its corporate citizenship.

"It is an honor to receive this recognition for our involvement in the community," said MCM President, John Meisenbach. "We are committed to continuing our philanthropic efforts."

MCM understands and believes in the importance of giving back to the community. Some of the organizations and charities that MCM contributed to include United Way of King County, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Atlantic Street Center, Leukemia & Lymphoma Society, Make-A-Wish Foundation, American Heart Association, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, and University of Washington.

Founded in 1961 by noted business leader and philanthropist, John Meisenbach, MCM delivers employee benefits, executive benefits, retirement plans, insurance advisory, and property and casualty insurance to high net worth individuals and a wide range of businesses.
